

FIG. 1

BEST AVAILABLE COPY

FIG. 2

200

210

Electrically couple a light source to a connector tip

220

Provide a housing around the light source, where the housing has a surface having a first portion that permits the passage of a first amount of light from the light source and a second portion that permits the passage of a second amount of light from the light source, and where the first amount of light is different from the second amount of light